Press release from Integer

Integer's Back-End System gets cracking

The approval process of a home loan is no easy task; it takes our competitors 5 days while it takes Integer a mere 8 hours. This means Integer has been able to shorten the home buying process significantly. Hence when Associated Motor Holdings (AMH), one of South Africa's leading players in the automobile industry, diversified into financial services with the view to offer home loans they spoke to us and not the Big 4 banks. Integer will white label all of AHM's home loans applications and processing using its groundbreaking back-end IT system known as Hyperion Essbase. This will save AMH the cost of setting up a new IT system and is an endorsement of Integer's unique product offering in the market.
